Linknovate, a leading innovation intelligence and technology scouting platform based in Spain, announces a strategic collaboration with Ezassi, a pioneer in innovation management and technology monitoring solutions. Through this collaboration, Linknovate will support Ezassi with innovation scouting, monitoring, and competitive intelligence activities, enhancing Ezassi’s ability to deliver high-value insights to organizations worldwide.

By combining Linknovate’s data-driven innovation intelligence capabilities with Ezassi’s expertise in managing and operationalizing innovation, the collaboration will help organizations more effectively identify emerging technologies, track competitive and market dynamics, and make better-informed innovation decisions.

As part of this collaboration, Linknovate and Ezassi are jointly developing a new AI-powered research assistant specifically tailored for innovation professionals worldwide. This initiative aims to simplify and accelerate research workflows, enhance insight discovery, and support strategic decision-making throughout the entire innovation process.

The collaboration also represents an important milestone in Linknovate’s international expansion, opening new global opportunities and extending the reach of its innovation intelligence solutions across markets and industries.
